Under Cover of Darkness: How I Blogged My Way Through Mantle Cell Lymphoma By Margaret Cahill

Not only is this book an inspiring survival manual for cancer patients, but its humour and objectivity make it a choice read for anyone who enjoys real-life drama and pathos. Diagnosed with Mantle Cell Lymphoma in 2012 the author resorted to a blog to keep in touch with friends, and unwittingly ended up writing about the good, the bad and the ugly side of cancer, which attracted many followers. Is there a good? Very possibly. Bad and ugly, definitely. There is also an extremely funny side - wry observations that brought humour into an otherwise bleak landscape which included chemotherapy and a stem cell transplant. The author is also blessed with a big following from the Mind, Body, Spirit community of which she is a part (including Judy Hall, Anita Moorjani, Dolores Ashcroft-Nowicki); from this outpouring of expert support came advice on nutrition and alternative therapies which help to make this an invaluable source of information for cancer patients and their carers.

Editorial Review

About the Author

Margaret Cahill publishes astrology and MBS titles through her company, The Wessex Astrologer. During 2013 she was treated for Mantle Cell Lymphoma; she had chemotherapy and a stem cell transplant for this rare cancer and kept a blog throughout the treatment - which she is sure helped her stay sane. 'Under Cover of Darkness' is the result.
